S.I. No. 578 of 2002.

EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES (ENERGY LABELLING OF HOUSEHOLD AIR-CONDITIONERS) REGULATIONS 2002.

Under Section 3 of the European Communities Act, 1972 (No. 27 of 1972) the Minister for Communications, Marine and Natural Resources has made the above Regulations, dated 11 December, 2002.

The purpose of the Regulations is to give legal effect to Commission Directive 2002/31/EC of 22 March, 2002 and Council Directive 92/75/EEC of 22 September, 1992 in so far as they relate to household air-conditioners.

These Regulations apply to household air-conditioners. Household air-conditioners that may also use other energy sources, air-to-water and water-to-water appliances, second-hand household air-conditioners and household air-conditioners of which production has ceased before 1 January 2003, are excluded.

The Regulations prohibit the placing on the market, for sale, hire or reward, of air-conditioners unless accompanied by information relating to the consumption of electrical energy in addition to certain supplementary information. This information is to be conveyed to the consumer by means of a specified label and an associated fiche (product information notice). The Regulations place the onus for the accuracy of the labels and fiches on the manufacturers, who will also be required to establish technical documentation sufficient to enable the accuracy of the information contained in the labels and fiches to be assessed.

Provision is made for the appointment and powers of authorised officers and penalties for offences under the Regulations, in addition to a transitional period to facilitate those who have been unable or have not had a reasonable opportunity to comply with the Regulations.

These Regulations may be purchased from the Government Publications Sale Office, Molesworth Street, Dublin 2. (Price: (€3.81).

BRENDAN TUOHY,
Secretary,
Department of Communications, Marine and Natural Resources.

EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES (ENERGY LABELLING OF HOUSEHOLD ELECTRIC OVENS) REGULATIONS 2002.

Under Section 3 of the European Communities Act, 1972 (No. 27 of 1972) the Minister for Communications, Marine and Natural Resources has made the above Regulations, dated 11 December, 2002.

These Regulations apply to household electric ovens. Household electric ovens that may also use other energy sources, ovens which do not fall within the scope of the harmonised standards, portable ovens, provided they are not designed for built-in installations, and household electric ovens of which production has ceased before 1 January, 2003, are excluded.

The Regulations prohibit the placing on the market, for sale, hire or reward, of electric ovens unless accompanied by information relating to the consumption of electrical energy in addition to certain supplementary information. This information is to be conveyed to the consumer by means of a specified label and an associated fiche (product information notice). The Regulations place the onus for the accuracy of the labels and fiches on the manufacturers, who will also be required to establish technical documentation sufficient to enable the accuracy of the information contained in the labels and fiches to be assessed.

Provision is made for the appointment and powers of authorised officers and penalties for offences under the Regulations, in addition to a transitional period to facilitate those who have been unable or have not had a reasonable opportunity to comply with the Regulations.

These Regulations may be purchased from the Government Publications Sale Office, Molesworth Street, Dublin 2. (Price: (€3.81)).
