The Code of Practice provides practical guidance as to the observance of Regulations 3 to 6 and 21 of the Safety, Health and Welfare at Work (Construction) Regulations 2001 (S.I. No. 481 of 2001) which, inter alia, require that "adequate precautions be taken in any excavation, shaft, earth work, underground works or tunnel to ... avoid risk to persons at work arising from possible underground dangers such as underground cables or other distribution systems, the circulation of fluids or the presence of pockets of gas, by undertaking appropriate investigations to locate them before excavation begins". The Code of Practice also provides practical guidance as to the observance of Section 8 of the Safety, Health and Welfare at Work Act 1989 in respect of relevant excavation work.

The aim of the Code of Practice is to improve the level of safety with which excavation work is carried out. In particular, it aims to reduce the incidence of damage to underground services, and in doing so to minimise risk to personnel who are involved in carrying out this work.

This Code of Practice comes into effect on 15 February 2005.

Copies of this Code of Practice are available from the National Authority for Occupational Safety and Health, 10 Hogan Place, Dublin 2, telephon (01) 6147000, fax 6147020.
