S.I. No. 217 of 2008.

SEA POLLUTION (CONTROL OF POLLUTION BY NOXIOUS LIQUIDS SUBSTANCES IN BULK)
REGULATIONS 2008.

The Minister for Transport, Mr. Noel Dempsey, T.D., has made the above Statutory Instrument.

These Regulations give effect to Annex II of the International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution from Ships, adopted by the International Maritime Organization on 2 November, 1973 and as amended by its Protocol adopted by the International Maritime Organization on 17 February, 1978 and as further amended under resolutions adopted by the Marine Environment Protection Committee (MEPC) of the International Maritime Organization.

The Regulations apply to all Irish ships wherever they may be and to all other ships when they are in Irish waters.

Noxious liquid substances are divided into four categories, X, Y, Z and Other Substances, according to the severity of the hazard which they present to human health and the marine environment, Category X presenting the worst hazard and Category Other Substances the least. Under the Regulations, discharges into the sea of these substances or mixtures of them are prohibited except when the discharges are made under specified conditions. These conditions vary according to the degree of hazard posed to the marine environment. Discharges are prohibited in the Antarctic area.

The Regulations require ships to follow specified procedures when washing cargo tanks in accordance with the category of the substance. They also provide for adequate facilities at ports, terminals or repair ports for the reception of residues or mixtures of noxious liquid substances.

Under the Regulations, ships are required to be surveyed, to carry an International Pollution Prevention Certificate for the Carriage of Noxious Liquid Substances in Bulk, and to be maintained in accordance with that Certificate. Ships are also required to carry a Cargo Record Book in which to record operations involving cargoes of noxious liquid substances.

Section 29 of the Sea Pollution Act 1991 provides for penalties for breaches of these Regulations.

These Regulations revoke the Sea Pollution (Control of Pollution by Noxious Liquid Substances in Bulk) Regulations 1994 (S.I. No. 46 of 1994).

Copies of the Order may be obtained from the Government Publications Sale Office, Sun Alliance House, Molesworth Street, Dublin 2 (Tel: 6476834), or by mail order from Government Publications, Postal Trade Section, Unit 20, Lakeside Retail Park, Claremorris, Co. Mayo.
